Over 5.1 million Lebanese and refugees from Syria receiving primary health care consultations and essential medicines since 2015

Over 520,000 Lebanese and refugees from Syria benefitted from livelihood support since 2015

Over 710,000 Lebanese and refugees from Syria benefitted from protection and social cohesion related services since 2015

Data as of April 2022

"I fled Syria for Lebanon with my two children, Mhammad and Maryam. My daughter goes to kindergarten while my son follows the activities promoted by the Back to the Future programme at the Al-Nejmeh centre in Tripoli. I really care about their education and I want them to be guaranteed this fundamental right. People should learn whatever it is they want to become so they can serve themselves and other people. Education and knowledge will help them in all aspects of life."

Mustafa, father of two children.
