3 DESCRIPTION OF THE ACTION PROGRAMME

3.1 PRIORITIES SELECTED UNDER THIS ACTION PROGRAMME

- Rationale for the selection of the specific priorities under this programme:

Strengthening civil society is a core part of the Political Criteria for accession. As such it also corresponds to essential and closely interlinked elements of the enlargement strategy and a crucial area that is regularly monitored in the Progress Report. Indeed, a more dynamic civil society can contribute to the accession process becoming more than just a technical process between the candidate country and the EU and to sustain public support for accession.

In 2012, the European Commission proposed an enhanced and more strategic approach in its engagement with local Civil Society Organizations (CSOs)² in partner countries. The communication "The roots of democracy and sustainable development: Europe's engagement with Civil Society in external relations"³ identifies the importance of CSOs as independent development actors and, for the first time, commits to promote a more conducive environment for their actions, so they can fully play their role and contribute to policy making.

The Multi Country Indicative Strategy Paper 2014-20⁴ endorses the approach proposed in the Communication and considers the support to civil society and media one of the priorities to improve democracy and rule of law through horizontal support.

The Civil Society Facility (CSF) introduced for the first time in 2008⁵ to support civil society financially and technically, proved to be a powerful means to strengthen participatory democracies and freedom of media. The CSF comprises both National and Multi-beneficiary initiatives which are programmed in a coordinated manner. The CSF is therefore a single facility for the Western Balkans and Turkey.

The priorities of the CSF and media action for the period 2014-15 are largely inspired by two sets of Guidelines elaborated in coordination with all Delegations and endorsed by the Commission's Directorate-General for Enlargement (DG Enlargement) end-2013, beginning 2014: EU Guidelines for the support to civil society in enlargement countries, 2014-20 and EU Guidelines for the support to media freedom and media integrity in enlargement countries, 2014-20. The two documents have been widely consulted with governments, civil society, media and International organisations within the region and in the EU. The guidelines translate the political objectives of the Commission as indicated in the Indicative Strategy

² As defined in the REGULATION (EU) No 233/2014 OF THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND OF THE COUNCIL of 11 March 2014 establishing a financing instrument for development cooperation for the period 2014-2020 "The EU considers CSOs as non-State, non-profit making actors operating on an independent and accountable basis. They include: non-governmental organisations, organisations representing indigenous peoples, organisations representing national and/or ethnic minorities, diaspora organisations, migrants' organisations in partner countries, local traders' associations and citizens' groups, cooperatives, employers' associations and trade unions (social partners), organisations representing economic and social interests, organisations fighting corruption and fraud and promoting good governance, civil rights organisations and organisations combating discrimination, local organisations (including networks) involved in decentralised regional cooperation and integration, consumer organisations, women's and youth organisations, environmental, teaching, cultural, research and scientific organisations, universities, churches and religious associations and communities, philosophical and non-confessional organisations, the media and any non-governmental associations and independent foundations, including independent political foundations, likely to contribute to the implementation of the objectives of the DCI Regulation.

Papers and in the enlargement package into a concrete "results' framework" containing the outcomes to be achieved by 2020 as well as the indicators to monitor them. The measurement of indicators will provide information for the elaboration of the yearly country progress reports and for the programming of IPA support.

A baseline assessment was conducted beginning 2014 and the baseline situation per country against indicators of the civil society Guidelines were presented in a regional conference in on May 2014. In that occasion a trilateral discussion has started among the Commission, national Governments and CSOs on the process of defining targets per country and on the requirements for longer-term sustainability of the monitoring and reporting exercise. The yearly national and regional meetings foreseen in the next years to analyse the advancements towards the targets will provide also a forum for further definition of the role of Governments and CSOs in ensuring ownership and sustainability of the entire process

With regard to freedom of expression, in an effort to have a thorough understanding of the systemic nature of the challenges in the enlargement zone and to elaborate adequate policy responses to it, the Commission organised two Speak-up! Conferences (2011 and 2013) involving stakeholders from the media community, CSOs and decision makers. These events and the following conclusions became important reference points in addressing the issues of media freedom and integrity in the context of the enlargement policy and the Guidelines for media offer a long term assistance approach to this end. The monitoring mechanism of the Guidelines for media is at an initial stage and a thorough baseline assessment is planned in 2015.

- Overview of past and on-going EU, other donors' and/or IPA II beneficiary's actions in the relevant sectors:

The 2012 external thematic evaluation of EU's support to civil society in the Western Balkans and Turkey⁶ concluded that the CSF support contributed to the strengthening of democracy and reconciliation with special focus on fulfilling the Copenhagen criteria.

In order to follow up on the lessons learned of the evaluation, the Commission decided to introduce the civil society and media guidelines to facilitate the translation of the political priorities into concrete objectives and results with indicators to measure their achievement. This major effort which is thoroughly reflected in the present document will support solid monitoring in the future of the EU contribution to civil society development in the Western Balkans and Turkey.

On the other hand the previous financial support to CSOs was based on providing action grants quite limited in time (up to 24 months), via calls for proposals centred on specific themes. With the introduction of Framework Partnership Agreements (IPA 2011-12) and Operating Grants (IPA 2013) the Commission decided to pay particular attention to cross-sectorial partnerships and networks involving more established and experienced EU and national CSOs as well as more grass-root local

⁶ Thematic Evaluation of EU's Support to Civil Society in the Western Balkans (namely Albania, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Croatia, the former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia, Kosovo*, Montenegro and Serbia) and Turkey" (2012)

CSOs. Nowadays, the support to long-term networks of CSOs will be further prolonged up to 4 years.

To reach smaller grassroots organisation outside urban areas the present programme will put in place the implementation of sub-granting schemes managed by regional thematic networks and International organizations. Several other activities to support the capacities of local and community based CSOs are organized regularly by TACSO (regional technical assistance to civil society organisations with offices in each beneficiary) and the EU Delegations at country level (e.g. helpdesk, info days, translation of the guidelines in local languages when new call of proposals are published).

Regarding assistance to media, the involvement of international bodies with a specific mandate has proven to be effective in the realization of regional activities targeting Public Service Broadcasts (European Broadcasting Union - EBU) and self-regulatory bodies (UNESCO) and will be further strengthened according to the recommendations of a recent scoping study on the topic⁷.

Referring to consistency of the European Union assistance, the activities of the CSF foreseen at multi country level have been carefully assessed and coordinated with the EU Delegations in the Western Balkans and Turkey. Thanks to the common priorities set in the Guidelines for EU support to civil society and media, a "division of labour" has been agreed with the Delegations in order to avoid overlapping and improve synergies between regional and national programmes, and coherence with the enlargement strategy.

The complementarity with other Commission's instruments devoted to support civil society (e.g. European Instrument for Democracy and Human Rights - EIDHR and civil society dialogue in Turkey) is ensured by regular exchanges of information and, mostly, at field level thanks to the joint management of the programmes by the EU Delegations. However, a clear distinction should be made between the different and complementary approach of the CSF deconcentrated/national window and the EIDHR:

- The Civil Society Facility should focus on empowering CSOs (i.e. civil society development) and increase Governments' response to CS needs;
- The EIDHR is the policy tool of the EU to promote democracy and human rights in all of its external policies.

The CSF and media programme 2014-2015 includes the following actions:

(1) Description of the Action, objective, expected results and key performance indicators

Description of the action:

The CSF is a single facility managed directly by Headquarters and by the EU Delegations / office in the beneficiaries, which supports the strengthening of civil society in the IPA region. The strategy for the CSF and media covers support at national and multi-beneficiary levels over the next two years, with associated budget appropriations for 2014 and 2015.

Objective:

The implementation of the strategy will contribute to the achievement of the overall objective for the CSF and media 2014-2015 programme, namely to strengthen participatory democracies by anchoring democratic values and structures, human rights, social inclusion and the rule of law, thereby supporting the EU integration process.

The purpose of the action is to stimulate an enabling legal and financial environment for civil society and pluralistic media as well as to empower civil society and media organisation to be effective and independent actors on issues relevant to freedom of expression and association with capacity to influence policy and decision making processes.

In order to achieve these objectives the CSF and media multi-country action foresees four components and 13 expected results.

Key performance indicators:

The main indicators related to the specific objective are:

- Quality assessment of existing legislation and policy framework
- Quality of structures and mechanisms in place for cooperation between CSOs/media and public Institutions
- External perception of importance and impact of CSOs activities and of CSOs' transparency and accountability

The P2P programme managed by the Technical Assistance for CSOs (TACSO), thanks to its demand driven approach, will serve the scope of addressing new topics not foreseen in this action document.

(2) Assumptions and conditions

A main precondition for the achievement of the objective of the action is that the development of a civil society culture in the region requires political stability and a favourable environment for the enhancement of CSOs and civil society dialogue. Consequently, partner CSOs and/or authorities from the Western Balkans and Turkey should be willing to establish and improve their exchange of information. All the assistance efforts will fail if the authorities implement policies and actions that are counterproductive to achieving a civil society culture. It is therefore of paramount importance that the EU and other donors keep a close eye on this and take appropriate measures if necessary. Failure to comply with the requirements set out above may lead to a recovery of funds under this programme and/or the re-allocation of future funding.
